

ML Morlock

ML Morlock is a passionate voice in the Kingdom—an anointed worship leader, itinerant speaker, and devoted servant of Jesus. Her ministry weaves teaching and song into transformative encounters, revealing the heart of God through power, authenticity, and joy. Often described as the “Bette Midler in the Spirit,” ML’s boldness, humor, and heartfelt delivery make her unforgettable.

Her worship pours from a soul that’s been through the fire and comes out refined, raw, reverent, and deeply moving. Whether she leads people into the depths of God’s presence through music or lights up the room with her lively, spunky, and straight-shooting teaching, ML ministers with freedom and fire, making audiences lean in and longing for more. “God has an incredible sense of humor,” she says. “He and I laugh together all the time.”

ML is an honoree of She Leads Tennessee, an organization that celebrates Christian women of distinction, faith, and vision – women who are leading the State of Tennessee with boldness, humility, and purpose. She holds a master’s degree in education from Auburn University, with an endorsement in ESL, and a master’s degree in theology.

With two decades of teaching experience in the States and Ecuador, she brings the heart of a teacher into every space she leads. She’s a recording artist, ordained minister, and the founder of Behind Me Now—a dynamic prison ministry serving women transitioning from incarceration to restoration. ML serves as a department head at Artists in Christian Testimony, Intl. She lives in Nashville, TN, and walks with purpose in her calling as a single woman after God's own heart.
